

After the Trail Ride—On the Community House Steps at Wapta Bungalow Camp

Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies

BULLETIN No. 5

THE Official Trail Ride of 1925 is now but a memory, and yet is there one of the hundred and one riders who will ever forget it?

Perfect weather, congenial company, wonderful evenings round the camp fire, scenery so spectacular that even the old-time guides were impressed—all contributed to a wonderful experience. If some found the long days in the saddle rather trying, this seemed all forgotten at the end of the ride, and the one small casualty of a sprained ankle did not disturb the unfailing good humor of the sufferer, who blamed only himself for the accident.

The accompanying illustrations are selected from many hundred snapshots received by the guests from many sources and may recall a few of the incidents on the trail. The following extracts are taken from reports published in Calgary papers.

MARBLE CANYON, AUG. 8 (From the Calgary Herald)

MARBLE CANYON, Aug. 8.—The Trail Riders are off. At 9 o'clock the 35 pack ponies strung in line and set out to reach the first camp before the riders. Half an hour later 66 riders and a dozen guides moved down the road a mile from Marble Canyon, turned their horses from the road and into the glacial waters of the Vermilion River.

At 8 o'clock this morning the buses began to arrive here with their load of Trail Riders who had congregated in Banff. Here they joined the pack train which had stood by here since yesterday morning. A string of cars with tourists and Banff residents began to arrive shortly after 8 o'clock. The spectators lined the road and the first few yards of the trail.

SOME ARE CAUTIOUS

The guides packed the dunnage bags with the riders' personal equipment on the pack ponies.

Approaching the Wolverine Plateau

The apportioning of the mounts to the riders progressed without a hitch. A few who thought their mounts too frisky arranged trades with others for less frolicsome ponies.

When all were mounted, Bill Potts, the head guide, swung out from the group to a commanding point on the road. His tanned face and well-worn costume of the trail contrasted strangely with the many new costumes and pale faces of the riders.

Swinging one leg over the pommel of his saddle, his sombrero hat to one side and a "chew in his face," he drawled out his instructions, and soon the cavalcade began to move forward in bunches of ten, each group in charge of a sub-guide.

WATCH CAVALCADE DEPART

The spectators watched the retreating cavalcade as the horses shouldered their way through the waters of the Vermilion, scrambled up the opposite bank and proceeded along Ochre Creek until out of sight near the historic Indian Paint Pots.

The Windermere party of fifteen, with Kootenay Indians, coming up Wolverine Pass from the Kootenay Valley, will join the Marble Canyon party on the Wolverine Plateau this evening.

HECTOR, B.C., AUG. 10

(From the Calgary Herald)

HECTOR, B.C., Aug. 10.—The string of Trail Riders and pack horses a mile long, with riders ranging from eleven to seventy years of age, swung down the winding trail from O'Hara to Wapta, to arrive at noon to-day.

No untoward incident marred the enjoyment of the trip. One man, however, had the misfortune to lose his horse early yesterday. When it took to the bushes, he walked the 11 miles of trail into the O'Hara camp.

Miss Alvena McCorkle, "seventy years young," as she says, swung from her saddle with an ease equal to eleven-year-old John Bristol, the youngest rider, son of Hon. Edward Bristol, the Toronto member of Parliament.

THROUGH VIRGIN WOODS

When the ponies had breasted the glacial waters of Vermilion on Saturday morning, near Marble Canyon, they followed the river to Ochre Creek, which they followed past the ancient Indian Paint Pots. Crossing the creek, the trail led to Tumbling Creek and then through miles of virgin forest filled with bear and moose.

The towering crags above were the homes of dozens of mountain goat, whose clambering on the steep ledges added life to the attractive picture.

NEW TRAIL CUT

Walter Nixon, famous Windermere guide, cut this trail last fall for the Trail Riders. Before the ride only straggling parties of hunters, trappers and Indians had attempted to get through the heavy timber.

Up and up the trail led through the timber until Washma—Wapta Glacier shone forth in the brilliant sunlight as the ponies crossed the timber line to the land of the glaciers.

WILD FLOWERS AND SNOW

Wolverine Plateau stretched for miles to the north, a strong profusion of wild flowers and grasses, with waist-deep snow drifts in the gullies.

Descent to Helmet Creek

Here the party lunched on sandwiches, tea and coffee, rushed that morning from Marble Canyon by pack train. Most appropriate was the choice, for here in a blinding snowstorm two years ago the Trail Rider organization was born.

Murray Gibbon, a Montreal author; Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, and Armstrong Roberts, of the "Country Life"; R. Palenske, famous Chicago artist, and Walter Nixon, the guide, were the marooned party who formed the nucleus of the association then to afford others an opportunity to see the interior of the Rockies.

PAST MOUNTAIN FALLS

On the afternoon ride the trail dropped into the valley beneath by a series of zig-zags down the shoulder of Mount Helmet, a rugged peak 10,287 feet in altitude. Splashed by the spray of an unnamed falls, with a drop of 1,500 feet from a glacier perched on top, the riders swung about to climb 1,500 feet to Goodsir Plateau.

Thrills in the shape of mud holes, waist-deep, with slippery, slimy roads on which the horses slipped time and time again, initiated the novices into trail riding and made many a heart beat faster.

AN INDIAN MEMBER

Old Chief Louis Arbel, of the Kootenays, arrived just before the sing-song as the first evening camp broke up. He will have travelled 400 miles to attend the ride and return home. Pointing to his own 2,500-mile badge, he told the riders that he was glad the first big party to travel through the land of his fathers should be members of his own organization. A great ovation of cheering greeted this pronouncement. The chief made himself at home and sang with the rest.

DROP TO VALLEY

Next day, with glacier-covered Mount Goodsir rising to 11,676 elevation to the right, the trail dropped from the plateau to the valley below, where Goodsir Creek from Goodsir Glacier rushed in a torrent to meet Ottertail River. Winding in and out amongst the sandbars and fording the creek and river some 20 times, the ponies at last drew up at the junction of McArthur Creek and the Ottertail for lunch. A steep climb of 2,000 feet over a slippery trail, covered by small jagged bits of limestone rock, brought the riders to the top of McArthur Pass, overlooking the valley in which Lake O'Hara nestled in its splendor of color.

After a drop of 500 feet by a series of rock-covered zig-zags the second day's ride ended, 18 miles in seven hours in the saddle.

Another pow-wow and sing-song followed dinner. Nine miles more trail this morning and the happy riders arrived here.

WAPTA, AUG. 11

(From the Calgary Herald)

WAPTA, Aug. 11.—The following officers were elected for the coming year at the Trail Riders' pow-wow, Monday night: Hon. president, Dr. Walcott, Washington, D.C.; president, J. M. Wardle, Banff; vice-presidents, Col. Phil. Moore, Banff; Major Fred. Brewster, Jasper; H. B. Clow, Chicago; Captain A. H. MacCarthy, Wilmer; and Mrs. P. Moore, Banff. J. Murray Gibbon was prevailed upon to accept the secretary-treasurership for the coming year.

With an orchestra playing the latest fox-trot hits and two hundred excursionists dancing up and down the aisles of the cars, the special arrived from Banff at 5.45 last night. Others came from the west. The late evening train from the east brought a hundred more from Banff and Lake Louise.

FIVE HUNDRED PRESENT

Five hundred people gathered in the big tent to join in the Sing-song from the Trail Rider song book, led by Harold Eustace Key, of Montreal, with his suitcase organ that he carried on the Trail from Marble Canyon to Wapta for the evening sing-songs. Miss Frances James, Soprano, from Montreal, rendered many selections, including a song entitled "A Great Canadian Pioneer," in honor of the man who guided the first party from Banff, discovered Lake Louise and Emerald Lake and led the rails over the Great Divide. That man was Tom Wilson, who journeyed from Windermere yesterday to attend the pow-wow. The junior Trail Riders and their friends cheered the oldest pioneer guide to the echo.

HAIG HOLDS BRONZE BUTTON

"Field-Marshal Earl Haig, the greatest cavalry officer in the world, refused a complimentary 2,500-miles trail rider button, but said he'd sooner earn a bronze one for 50 miles," announced Secretary-Treasurer J. Murray Gibbon, of Montreal, at the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies pow-wow here last night.

"He asked for a map and marked down the twenty miles he rode while in Banff. When in Jasper he made it a point to ride 30 miles to qualify for the bronze button.

MAY SEEK HIGHER AWARDS

Earl Haig and Lady Haig expressed a hope that they might at some future date qualify for the silver button and brooch of the Trail Riders.

WAPTA LAKE, B.C., AUG. 13

(From the Calgary Albertan)

WAPTA LAKE, B.C., Aug. 13. —Wapta Bungalow Camp and the Trail Riders Teepees were en fête Monday when the annual pow-wow and dance of the riders of the Rockies was held here from 7 o'clock until 1 o'clock on Tuesday morning. The riders mustered at the lakeside throughout the day, on the last stage of the three-day journey on horseback through the wildest mountain scenery of the Rocky Mountains.

A Glacial Ford

At an early hour, dusty and travel-stained riders came trooping into camp in small numbers of twos and threes, at times accompanied by a guide and pack team. Packers with their outfits arrived at intervals throughout the morning, heralded by clouds of dust, which made them easily discernible from the far side of the lake, as they wound their way down the lower spurs of Cathedral Mountain.

LUNCHEON IN MARQUEE

An all fresco luncheon was served in the marquee specially erected for the occasion, and the hungry riders did ample justice to the first-class fare provided. Everything went off like clockwork. There was not a single hitch in the proceedings to mar what proved to be a most delightful day's entertainment.

Mingling with the gay throng were noticed many notable people; officials of the C.P.R., and Alpine clubs of both Canada and the United States, and many old-timers. Many feet of film were used up in making photographic records of the event; 1,500 feet of cinematograph film alone were exposed by the official cinematograph man, John Alexander, during the three days spent on the trail.

HAPPY TIME SPENT

The special train from Banff arrived on time at 5.45 in the afternoon, bringing another 150 visitors for supper and the pow-wow and dance afterwards. The latter did not terminate until 12.30 Tuesday morning. The Imperial Radio orchestra from Calgary and Banff supplied the music, which was very much appreciated if the happy crowds seen using the dance floors and the verandah were any criterion.

HORSE TAKES FRIGHT

One incident worthy of note occurred on the Trail Ride, almost at the beginning, when the horse ridden by Dr. Burpee, took fright and bolted just as he was preparing to mount. The party was coming down the Goodsir Mountain Pass, which is very steep and narrow at the point where the accident happened. Dr. Burpee's saddle slipped as he was about to mount his horse, and the fright of the animal caused him to fall heavily to the ground, lose his balance on the narrow trail and roll down a steep grade for several feet, striking his head upon a rock. This did not deter the intrepid mountaineer.

Refusing all offers of a "lift," the sturdy doctor hiked into Lake O'Hara Bungalow Camp from where he lost his horse on the Goodsir, a distance of 13 miles, and the following morning he continued his way into Hector on foot. In all, Dr. Burpee covered a distance of 30 miles, on foot over rough mountain trail. Although only a short man from a point of view of height, the doctor weighs 270 pounds, so the feat can be considered something of a record. The horse has not yet been located, although search was made by several guides immediately after the break-away. Up to a late hour last night it was decided that the nervous animal must be still going.

At the pow-wow, Mr. Wardle, chief park engineer of the Canadian National Park Highways Department, in his opening speech, made interesting mention of the way Mr. Randolph Bruce had ridden in from Lake Windermere, a distance of over 100 miles in order to take part in the Trail Ride, bringing with him a squadron of 25 other riders, members of the Trail Riders Association. Mr.

Bruce is an old-timer in the Windermere district, and it says a great deal for the enthusiasm of the corps when they will rally round the head teepees wherever it may be. Professor Fay made an interesting announcement when he mentioned having

"My dear Mr. Gibbon:

Being under the impression that the Trail Riders' annual gathering would be held prior to the Alpine Club gathering, I sent a message from CORDOVA, Alaska, regretting that it would not be possible to be home in time. However, after arrival I received the notice of meeting, and although it is not possible to attend, I feel I must write to express more fully my deep regret that such should be the case. The organization is a splendid one, and I feel sure has a great future. Many of those I met touring in Alaska this summer referred to it, and I am only sorry that the force of circumstances has been such as to deprive me of the opportunity of doing more for it.

Please accept and convey to those present my sincere regards and very best wishes for the good time that only our Alpine areas can afford.

(Signed) W. W. FOSTER."

At the Council Meeting, the following telegram was sent to Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway:

Camp Fire at Lake O'Hara climbed over the Abbott's Pass from Lake Louise to O'Hara with Jim Brewster when the latter was a boy of 15. The Professor and Jim were the first to make the complete climb from point to point in 1898.

Four faces that were especially missed were those of Dr. Charles D. Walcott, Col. W. W. Foster, Capt. A. H. MacCarthy and Mr. H. B. Clow—all unavoidably absent. Dr. Walcott, who was represented at the Pow-Wow by Mrs. Walcott, was held up in his Camp at Baker Creek with an attack of lumbago; Col. Foster and Captain MacCarthy had accumulations of other calls after their long absence on the Mount Logan Expedition, and Mr. H. B. Clow at the last minute had to forego the Trail Ride owing to important business. Col. Foster's letter of regret here follows:—

"The Council of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies desire to express to Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, their deep appreciation of the generous support he has given to their organization since its inception. They particularly desire to thank him for the wonderful new trail he has caused to be constructed through the Wolverine and Goodsir connecting Tumbling Glacier near Marble Canyon, on the Banff-Windermere Road, with Lake O'Hara. This trail formed the major portion of the route of the Official Trail Ride just completed and has made accessible a territory of magnificent Alpine scenery the grandeur of which must be seen to be realized.

Mr. Beatty's reply was as follows:—

"I deeply appreciate the message which you have sent me on behalf of the Council of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies and am extremely glad to know that the efforts of the Canadian Pacific have assisted the objects of your organization. I hope that this year's pilgrimage has been successful and pleasant.

E. W. BEATTY."

Arrival at Lake O'Hara Bungalow Camp

The packing contest at Wapta Bungalow Camp was highly interesting and instructive. Points were given on time and neatness. Jack Fuller won on total points, while Walter Nixon came a close second. The Alberta guides were strong on speed while the B.C. guide was particularly commended for his neatness.

Everyone was delighted to welcome the six boy scouts who made the long trip with Walter Nixon from Windermere under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Atkinson. This was a ride of over two hundred miles for the boys, as they helped to bring the horses back home again.

Boy Scouts from Lake Windermere

When the accounts for the Trail Ride were finally closed, it was found that the cost was slightly more than estimated, the deficit amounting to about fifty dollars. Fortunately the profit and loss account for the first year's operations of the Trail Riders showed a balance of over four hundred dollars, so that there is no necessity for an additional assessment. Special credit is due in this connection to Bert Ward, who arranged for the catering between Marble Canyon and Lake O'Hara; to L. S. Crosby, who took charge of collections, and to the guides who supplied outfit and horses at such reasonable rates.

LOCAL SQUADRON FORMED AT JASPER

In accordance with the Constitution, a local Squadron was inaugurated at Jasper on July 18th. The following is the press dispatch describing the event.

JASPER PARK, JULY 18th

JASPER'S oldest residents and Jasper National Park's newest enthusiasts signed the roll together to-day at the inaugurating of Jasper Squadron of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies when Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Swift, pioneer residents of Jasper, preceded Earl and Countess Haig in affixing their signatures.

Mr. and Mrs. Swift, who have resided within a few miles of Jasper station site for some forty years, were congratulated by the Earl and the Countess on having been chosen to sign first of the members of the new squadron.

The Trail Riders' camp, on a plateau of the shore of Lake Mildred, presented an animated scene when Earl Haig and his party arrived for the inauguration this morning.

J. Murray Gibbon, of Montreal, Secretary of the Trail Riders, was present for the inaugural and the plateau was alive with cowboys, guides, park rangers and guests from the lodge; the majority of them mounted when the Earl arrived. Dismounting from their horses, the Earl and Countess Haig proceeded to the secretary's tent, where they followed Mr. and Mrs. Swift in signing the roll.

In turn, they were followed by other members of the party and by some seventy-five residents of Jasper and guests at the lodge who have qualified for badges in the Trail Riders. The majority of the badges issued to-day were naturally the bronze badges for fifty miles and over of riding on mapped trails, but there were also a number of silver badges for the 100 miles riders, gold for the 500 miles and the highly prized full color enamel badge indicating that the wearer had travelled over 2,500 miles on the charted trails in the Canadian Rockies.

Following the inaugural meeting and the signing of the roll, the meeting adjourned until eight o'clock in the evening, when the first grand pow-wow and organization meeting was held in the recreation hall of Jasper Park Lodge.

The membership of the Jasper Squadron on October 15th includes Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways.
